.Q: How does one select more than one span tag using BeautifulSoup I am using

soup = BeautifulSoup(r.text, 'lxml')
after that I have an array of information data =
soup.findAll('span', id = 'dvdInfo') This is a portion of the html DVD

2017-01-04 0 For the first two spans, I can just use `data = soup.findAll('span', id = 'dvdInfo')` for spans but for the third I am running into an error `data = soup.findAll('span', id = 'dvdInfo')` `AttributeError: 'NoneType' object has no attribute 'findAll'` I am not sure why the third is none when I can use the first two just fine. A: When you use `soup.findAll('span', id='')` the result will contain the first found match. This will cause the problem as there is no span in this div.

You could just use this to find all spans:

soup.findAll('span', id=True)

It will find all s. To select only certain ones, you could use

soup.findAll('span', {'id': 'dvdInfo'})

If you want all spans where the id is

soup.findAll('span', {'id': 'dvdInfo'})

You can use multiple selector

arguments in dict() like this: {'id': 'dvdInfo'} It will find all ids that match. To fix your problem, you could use one of the findAll methods. data = soup.findAll('span', id=True) for span in data: print span.text Or use findAll again with your filtering criteria.
